Politicions will learn bye and bye that it doesen't pay to monkey with the Socialist buzz saw. At Oscoola Mills, Pa., the Socialists found that the election board at the last election falled to make proper returns as to the So-cialist vote. So they took the matter into court and the board could not very well avoid pleading guilty and so had to pay the costs. Next time they will remember their burned fingers and know better, I guess!

The Chicago Daily Socialist has changed its name to The Chicago Evening World. The change came about Evening World. The change came about in a rather unusual way. A hig printers' strike in Chicago with the newsboys in active sympathy, resulted in the paralysis for many deys of the old party newspaper offices. The Chicago Daily Socialist stepped into the breach with a morning edition which it called The Morning World. It came pretty near being the only daily reading matter Chicagoans had for s veral days, and when the strike subsided in intensity the morning paper was continued and the morning paper was continued and finally, to take advantage of the wide advertising the morning venture had had, the name of the regular evening dition was changed as noted above.

A reeder asks for a definition tage, also the pronunciation of the sen, as in Sabbath, a.as in far and tage as tawsh, the h being soft. The word comes from sabot, a peasant's shoe. Sabotage has come to stand for a form of iswlessness that is explained pleas-antly by its advocates as a strike where the striker stays at work—and, of course, does all the injury to the employer that he can. Putting emery dust the machinery to cripple it, or micals in boilers, or castor oil in hread dough are little tricks of labor warfare that are now referred to as sabotage. It smacks a good deal of the old, extreme pure and simple tactics. It is at best cowardly fighting, and very short-sighted bosides.

No class of human beings, however set aside from the rest of mankind by dress and association, have been more persistent, cunning and sonliess in their villification of Social-Democracy than the Jesuits. Yet we find that our party in Germany protested when the Jesuits were expelled from that nation for their intrigues and plottings, and today when the subject is again up they are their intrigues and plottings, and today when the subject is again up they are again protesting, just as they do against exception laws of whatever nature. It was in 1872 that Bismarckiexpelled the Jeeuits from Germany, and they have been kapt out ever since. Recently the prime minister of Bavaria, where the Catholics are in the majority, quietly sounded the authorities as to allowing Jesuits to come in to lecture, and it has raised a storm among the Protestants Rays a foreign party paper: "The and asure, was the "color" of the non-laboring classes. And that red came to be the color of the laboring class. Jesules to come in to lecture, and it has raised a storm among the Protestants. Bays a foreign party paper: "The Social-Democratic party, faithful to its principles of religious liberty and against all persecutions, are asking, as they have consistently done all along, for the suppression of the santi-Jesuit law." There's no 'ends justifying the means' about that:

That cussed little word "If" is a ways tripping ns up. A man named Spielman, spelling for the direct action lists in a Massachusetts town, said embern, thus showing Christianty's wealth which controls courts and citled with the showing that stands still. Even the militia." How simple—If there were no "Ifs." But it is, the ifs that have made the labor movement one of slow growth. If the working class were only sufficiently educated in its own interests. Heaven," It is true that the time and best to read on the strength of d little word "If" is ciently educated in its own interests to unite in mass action; if workingmen were all filled with brotherly spirit there would be no militia of workingmen; if workers in a certain industry or group of industries could all see alike they might all fold their arms in unison; and if there were no reserve army of workers on the starvation edge, with families dependent on them, the places vacated by those who folded their arms might not be filled by the bosses. The labor problem is surrounded with ifs, and true leadership consists in seeing them all and being guilded accordingly. Seeing the ifs requires headwork, puts patience ciently educated in its own interests being guided accordingly. Seeing the ifs requires headwork, puts patience in the place of impatience—the patience to wage the best fight that can be waged nader all the circumstances and with the soonest chance of winning. The leader who does not see the "ifs" in advance leads on to disaster.

Speaking of flags—this number is a sort of flag number—the way to exist the American flag with the American people is to keep it clean—to make it the emblem of a republic pledged to political liberty dearly won, a government of the people. The way, to lower respect for the flag is to make it the emblem of all that is mean, and low and corrupt in old party politics, and to make it the emblem of business grafts. Socialists respect and revere the stars and atripes for what it really stands for, a nation of the people, by the people and for the people.

As for the red flag, that has come down to us through history as "the incalculably aged flag of labor," and we respect it as such. It has been the emblem of the oppressed for centuries on centuries. But, after all, it is a non-essential with us. It isn't even worth making a scare over. But we use fruith the same right that the papal yellow is used by its followers, or as the square compass is used by our Masonic brethren, and so on. But the origin of the red flag is interesting.

Dr. Osborn Ward, in his life work: "The Ancient Lowly," says that in

The Women Find the Profits for the Trusts-By Victor L.

One more question to you, madam. Have you noticed cut them out. that the prices of the necessaries of life, have gone up as they never went before?

Of course you have noticed that they were very high. But do you know that the American prices on January 1, 1910, were the highest ever recorded?

According to statistics: breadstuffs, which were, to use an average figure, 52 cents on July 1, 1896—were 99 cents on September 1, 1907, and $1.02 on July 1, 1910.

It is true that because of the general outery, some prices have fallen slightly, about one-half per cent whole-

What if they did? Even so, most prices are higher than they ever were known to be before. And the chances are that they will hold their own this year. We should like to know, madam, how you manage to feed your family on the money you get.

How do you manage to make ends meet, especially at the close of the week?

Did you ever think about it yourself?

No doubt this last year has been very hard for you. Food prices especially have gone up to figures they have never before reached.

But it has been found by statistics that more than half of the total income of a workingman's family is spent for food.

And that is natural enough. Before all things, one must eat.

The rent may be stood off. The elothing may be patched. The family may be cold. But the children must eat. And so must the grown people.

Now, what will you do with your family, madam?

The wealthy people say that you do not know how to

But how can you save?

Because the average workingman is poor, his family is unable to practice such ordinary economies as the middle class think most necessary.

The wife buys one cake of soap for 5 cents, when 25 cents would buy six cakes. She buys one can of tomatoes at a time for 10 cents, when six cans may be bought for 50 cents, etc.

For the workingman who earns $750 a year, which is more than the average workingman carns in Milwaukee, we can say the following:

His family is underfed; is almost ragged; is cold in winter; is huddled, six or seven persons in four rooms; millionaires are infinitely nicer than your house.

There are some poodle dogs that wear diamond studded there are some poodle dogs that wear diamond studded there are some poodle dogs that wear diamond studded there are some poodle dogs that wear diamond studded there are some poodle dogs that wear diamond studded there are some poodle dogs that wear diamond studded the source of the horses and the dog kennels of the horses are infinitely nicer than your house. Is without sanitation; is weighed down by debts; is a prey to Shylocks; is in wretched surroundings; and is in a dally race with starvation.

For weat, the average family eats sausage, cheap stew meat, pork, and sometimes the cheapest round And they are mighty glad to get that. Half of the year the family uses eggs.

The only luxury is tobacco for the head of the family. And in some families, an occasional pint of beer.

your family eats too much, and that you do not know at heart the welfare of your children, the welfare of your how to cook.

So what are you going to do about it?

This is a great country, and produces all we need We produce so many things of all kinds, particularly foodstuffs, that we send them all over the world. And if there should not be enough, we could easily produce ten times as much.

Wise men tell us that the Mississippi valley alone could raise food enough to feed the inhabitants of the whole world.

They not only control the packing houses, but through their cold storage houses and magazines control also the poultry, the butter and the fruit.

And through their elevators they control the wheat, which naturally influences the price of bread. The railroads do the rest.

The trust owners, of course, need the money The average New York plutocrat spends $400,000 a year for his household and living expenses—that means 500 times more than a workingman's family get whose head has stendy employment.

There are 100 women in New York who each spend $30,000 a year for dresses, and 1,000 who spend $15,000 year each.

Quite a number of our millionaires own plates of solid gold and there are rich families who boast of china costing

A hundred thousand dollars would not even pay the interest on the money spent for trinkets which are worn every evening at the Metropolitan opera by the rich women in the boxes. There are a number of New York women that boast that their jewelry costs them half a million dollars. A single pearl necklace was recently sold at Tiffany's for $200,000. There are 50 New York men who wear link cuff buttons worth $5,000 a pair.

So the capitalists need the money.

And no matter how pretty and good your child may be, it will never have as good a living in this world as a millionaire's dog or horse—if capitalism is to last. There is only one way in which we can stop this starvation brought about artificially by a handful of sharks in

And then answer this question: Is the Social-Demo cratic party right or not, when it tries to unite the work-ingmen and the poor people generally in order to change this system, so that you and your children and your neighbor and her children shall be taken care of now and be assured for the future?

For our party expects to find its strongest ally in the And do you know the reason for this ungoldy rise of home. Our party expects to find an ally in every woman the means of livelihood? Do you know it is not a bad who loves her husband and her children.

And the party is entitled to the help of every woman.

It fights especially for woman and the home. . It fights for better economic conditions—that means a fight for greater prosperity and greater happiness for every woman. Women can only be happy when they can keep their ehildren comfortable, well-fed, well-dressed-when they ean have a good home for them. Women are spending the money of the wage-earners for the benefit of the home. Therefore women are the principal victims of the trust exploitation. It is the woman who must find the profits for the trusts out of her household money. It is the woman who must find the dividends on the watered trust stocks who must find the dividends for the beef trust, the coal-trust, the ice trust, the gas trust, the cotton trust, the woolen trust and all the other trusts.

The woman is doing all the managing. And she must do all the worrying to make possible the enormous trust profits. She bears the brunt of the criminal taxation of the people by the trust and the trust government. Therefore, we want you to see that your husband or

SEATTLE. Wash.—A great city openly defying a judge of the federal court—and getting away with it:

That is the spectacle presented to the people of the netion today by the City of Seattle.

For the first time in the history of the United States the people have defied a judge and purposely ignored and violated his order because they believed that judge to be unfair and tyrannical.

In a conference with Robert Hunter, formes—member of the national executive committee of the Socialist party who is now touring Great Britain, lagdie expressed his desire to make a tour of this country during the fall campaign.

This was brought to the attention of National Campaign Monager J. Mahlon Barnes, who is planning to refer it to the first meeting of the national campaign committee, which will probably be held June 15.

It is Hardie's desire to speak at 10 or 12 big meetings to be held in the big industrial centers from New York to San Francisco and back again. Hardie visited this country some time ago and is quite fsmiliar with the conditions prevailing here. He has also been a frequent visitor to continental Europe where he has often spoken before large Socialist gatherings, thus getting a broad view of the world Socialist movement.

Hardle is among the older members of the labor movement in Great Britain, having been born in Scotland, August 15, 1856, of working class parents, both his father and mother being Scotch. He was at work in the mines from his seventh to his twenty-fourth year, when he was elected secretary of the Lancashire miners' union.

It is therefore up to the I. W. W. to explain how it happens that those who interfered with and tried to discredit a great working class demonstration wors the buttons of that organization.

They were not Socialists. They were not in-dustrial unionists. We doubt that they are dustrial unionists. We doubt that they are workers.

Sursiy they were not merely malicious imbeciles. Such a thought is impossible, for they were organized to do the dirty work they perfermed. They were not "anarchists," otherwise they would not heve been organized.

Let the "enerchists" and the l. W. W. find out, for, as the affair developed, it was plain that the intentions of these men were so well understood intentions of these men were so well understood that the polics, usually so ready to interfere with a REAL SOCIALIST demonstration, remained perfectly pincid and allowed the would-be rioters to do what they could.

They didn't do much. To the credit of the Socialist party it can be recorded that in the face of enormous provocation the situation was well handled. The only thing that remains to be found out is why those who tried to "start" something did so. Why did they? Who was behind them? The idee that they acted on impulse is nonsense. Such men elways have per-

But there is one incident connected with this matter that will bear smphasis, and that is the "trampling on the Amarican flag." It was not trampled upon, but the report has been spread that it was. The flag was not wantad, however, and that is the Important thing.

Most of the hot anti-flagists are really persons

Most of the hot anti-flagists are really persons who have not emancipated themselves from nationalism and superstitution. They are like the overthrewers of idois who tora down one image to place another in its place; of the iconociasts who substituted some fool and vicious symbol for the "sacred" image or picture they destroyed.

symbol for the "sacred" Image or picture they destroyed.

It may emuse some to attack the flag. Such actions do not lead to anything. An attack on the flag rejoices the hearts of the possessing class. An attack on their political powers does not. Yet those who made such a commotion at the May Day demonstration are the very ones who do not use the most effective weapon the working class possesses, the ballot. Why? Let them answer. It is up to them. And until they do, and rightly, we place them with the most insidious, cowerdly and contemptible of all this enemies of the working class. And they do not belong to that class, for they are against it.

If they were working to hang the mob through creating public distrust, they could not have worked more effectively.

One thing is certain, they were not working in the interests of the two men who are now in jail in Lawrence or in the interests of the working class as a whole. The question persists, therefore: for whom were they working?

It is manifestly up to the local I. W. W. to answer,—N. Y. Call.

HANS; THE STORY OF A GERMAN BOY BY MARTIN GALE

Now the yawi was heavy and the oar long, so he had to stand on one of the thwarts in order to get the leverage and be able to sculi at all and it was hard work. But he managed to get a little headway on and so he gradually drew up river. Several tugbosts passed him, on with a hig schooner in tow. One nearly ran him down, the side of the tug scraping elong the gunwhale of the yawl and pushing it aside. A deckhand reached over with a broom to give Hans a swipe but Hans was too quick for him and ducked down so the deckhand could only swest at him as the tug drew away. People on the bridges stood and watched him as he slowly went by and it is a wonder some policeman did not go after him. But nothing bothered or deunted him and as proud as a boy could be, about 5 o'clock he reached the foot of Cedar street, tied up the yawl and skipped up the street where he soon had a lot of kids from four to ten years, boys and girls belonging to the neighbors and he led them down to the yawl. The dock was about t feet high from the water and it was quite a job to get the kids al' sboard. One of them slipped down between the side of the yawl and the dock and hung on to the gunwhale till Hans pulled him in, but finally he had them ali in and then he started down the river; for he was bound for the lake, he wanted to make a voyage. None of the ybungsters had the slightest fear, the yawl was big, and steady as a church, as a sailor would have said, and they were having a great time. CHAPTER III.

First Mate Finds a Nursery.

Under Wells street and Grand avenue bridge they went, the current ihough slow helping them along some and between the last bridge and Sycamore ctreet bridge the tug F. C. Maxon came along and her wesh as she pessed them made the yawi roll and toss about, which made them all fairly shout with give. But Hans, as usual, had bed luck. The yawi was discovered missing by the first mate of the Vanve, who borrowed a bost frem a schooner near by and with two saliors on the thwarts started to look for it. Near Clybourn street bridge he spied it and as he came alongside he exclaimed: "Well, I'll he blowed if we haven't got a young nursery beret". He climbed aboard, toek the oar from Hans, sculled the yawi up to the clock, unloaded

Hans had to lead the kids home, and as he came around the corner of Wells loto Fourth street, some of the neighbor women who were looking for their youngsters, came along. "I feel certain that thousands of citizens will support this movement," said Mr. Zabel this morning. "This is the first time a thorough attempt has been made to rid the city of its segregated district and we are in need of every support obtainable. "To my mind, there are three ways of handling this perplexing problem, First comes the etrict enforcement of the laws. Another way is to acknowledge the evil as necessary and allowing it to exist in a segregated district. The third is to repeal prohibitive laws and put immoral houses on a legal and recognized hasis, as in European countries," said Mr. Zabel. Mr. Zabel added that the third plan, in his opinion, is repugnant and nn-American. "The only plan is the strict enforcement of the law. That will give the city a better moral slanding. If we do nut intend to enforce the laws, then why should they not be repealed?

WORLD-WIDE MOVEMENT.

Reelizing that the movement of the workers is world-wide, the Socialists desire to symbolize this world wide ideal in something that is common in all of us, overleeping the bounds of race or nationality. For that reason they chose the color of the common blood that flows in the veins of all the children of the earth.

Some time ago, Mayor Gaynor of New York city gave the following, answer to a protest hy some of the Goo-Goos uf that city against the use of the universal peece flag of the Socialists in a street procession.

However, The Sentinel only played the part of the Devil's Advocate, deceiving its readers and putting itself in right with the powers that prey.

The more capitalism has developed in this country the more flagrant it hes become. All sorts of crooks and grafters and crawling vermin shelter themselves under the proud Old Glory. All sorts of scoundreis drape themselves in the atases and stripes and to them that is excuse enough. The flag has covered more roguery than all of our capitalist courts put together.

Under the present system the flag is used to cover end to excuse the steelings, the murder end the numberless crimes of cepitellism. It is for this reason that such representetives of capitellism as Morgan

CHAPTER IV. Circus Pacade vs. School.

Circus Paeade vs. School.

Now the day came when Hans was sent to school. Living on Cedar street, then the boundary line between the Second and Fourth wards, he had the advantage of being able to go to either the Second or Fourth Ward school. One of his big brothers went to the Fourth and so took him along. When he reached the baby class and was given a seak and had to sit still, a cloud seemed to fail upon everything and the world seemed dark to Hans. He laid his head on the desk and softly cried to himself. The teacher came, raised his head, natted his wet cheek and told him to be a good boy. So he hraced up and soon took an interest in the school work. But on days when the sun shone hright and the hirds sang, Hans could not stand it in the schoolroom, and then at recess he would quietly slip away and wander down to the lake shore or the awimming place on the Menomonee. Next day he would get a whipping from the teacher and then he would stay away altogether for a few days. Finally he was expelled; because the teacher could do nothing with him, and then he went to the Second Ward school, where the Pahat Brewing company's offices; now are. Here the teacher seemed to understand him better, and for a while he got along very well. But one day a circus parade came hy and just in front of the schoel the lard becan to play. This was too much for Hans. He went out, followed the parade and forgot to come hack. in front of the senset the barn or han to play. This was too much for Hans. He went out, followed the parade and forgot to come hack. In those days there were no trush officers, and on those days there were no trush officers, and so Hans stayed away from school all summer, until fall came and it was warmer at school, then he went back. The teacher had almost forgotten him and the class was away ahead; but Hans was bright, so he soon caught up and remained at school all winter.

But when spring came again he was up to his old tricks, but this time the teacher went to Hans' father. Now Hans' father and mother were quite busy and both having been gaised on a farm in Wuerttenberg where it was customary to let the children run wild and pay to attention to them and not having anything for Hans to do likewise let him run about. Hans came regularly to his meals and home to sleep and so his parents thought he was all right. Nor did Hans realize that he was doing wrong, he merely allowed his natural inclinations wrong, he merely allowed fils natural inclinations for a free life out in the open air with old Mother Nature to rule his action. It did not realize that he was doing anything wrong and did not understand the value of an education. But now things changed. Hand got a first class waitoping, so he could not at on a chair for a week. Then his father talked to him and explained why he sent him to school and promised him if he was a good boy he would let him go on a farm, during vacation.

a sudden the girl turned up her hand and before Haus knew what happened, he had a thin stream if milk straight into his mouth. And how the girls laughed, for them it was a great joke to catch the city boy like that.

When night came Hans was put to bed in a coom all hy himself, and for a long time he could not sleep. Outside his door something kept running and pattering up and down. After a while the moon rose and threw some light into the room, so Hans took courage, got up, and cautiously opened the door and looked into the hailway. To his surprise, there were three halfgrown kittens playing out there, running up and down, chasing each other, and, aftee capturing down, chasing each other, and, after capturing one of them, he returned to bed and went to sleep, with the kitten softer purring in his arm. The GREAT CHANGE.

It is herd to reelize how fee we heve gone through "the revolution" during the years since 1900. At that time a few groups of earnest, secious Socielists, in the leeger cities were about all there was of the Socielis movement on the American continent.

In spite of ridicule, setire, irony and malicious miscepresentation the Socielist movement has forged eneed with Niagere capidity. Today Socielism is the liveliest issue discussed seriously in newspapers and magazines and on the political platform or from the pulpit. The newspaper, megezine, platform orateo or pulpit educator who ridicules Socialism todey only makes a demonstration of his lack of understanding of the greatest fector in present day life.

There is no longer a villege or country eross road, postoffice or rurel mall cerrier in the country who does not deliver Socielist papers to enthusiestic Socialists. Every Socielist is a missionery and propagendist for the cause, and thus the work goes on.

Today the multitudes everywhere are hungry for the message of hope which the Socialist press alone is competent to deliver.

The Real Difference Between Socialism and Syndicalism

Walter Lippmann in the June International.

What the growth and ultimate victory of syndicalism would mean in work was given the other day in the terms of civilized life I for one am unchio to sey. That most of what we understand now by Socialism would be discarded is certain. Syndicalism suggests an entirely new form for society. Some of the differences can be noted.

The Socialist's vision is one of citizonship extended over industry. He thinks of sil production subordinated so public use. To put it roughly, his future is one in which men have learned the art of living and have made business their servant. But the syndicalism differences had been stature is one in which men have learned the art of living and have made business their servant. But the syndicalism differences had been subject to the syndical molons—say cosi, steel and transportation—say cosi, steel and transportation—found become monopolists at the expense of the whole population. The workers in those industries would be become mills shall own those mills, that he union in an industry shall own the machinery of it, Under Socialism all the people own all industries and empthy the workers in each particular phe; under syndicalism the workers own in linerests are as wide as society. Some the form of the order of exploitation of particular workers then would be, and the necespital state of the order of exploitation of particular workers then would be, and the necespital state of the order of exploitation of particular workers then would be, and the necespital state of the order of exploitation of particular workers then would be, and the necespital state of the order of exploitation of particular workers then would be, and the necespital state of the order of exploitation of particular workers then would be, and the necespital state of the order of exploitation of particular workers then would be, and the necespital state of the order of exploitation of particular workers then would be, and the necespital state of the order of exploitation of particular workers then would be, and the necespital order of exploitation of particular workers then would be, and CHICAGO, Ill., May 31.—This week will see the national Socialist campaign take real shape, three weeks before the presidential candidate.
